FOLLOWING THE FLAG.

A woman may be fickle, inconsistent, too, we find, May sometimes change her husband And often change her mind; But in one thing she's as loyal As a soldier to his flag— She clings with moist persistence To her chamois powder rag.—(Ina Gainer.)

In spite of the fun the House has been having out of "Uncle Bill" Allen, the mountain preacher whose seat is contested, the Democrats are preparing to can him this week.

At the request of President Wilson, Senator Ollie M. James addressed the American Society of Hungarians in New York Sunday afternoon. Following his speech the Kentuckian was the guest of honor at a dinner at the St. Regis Hotel.

Senator James is on the stump helping the President, but the Russellville paper quotes Congressman Bob Thomas, Senator James' brother-in-law, as saying that he will resign before he will vote for the President's defense program measures.

President Wilson may include Paducah in the itinerary of his proposed second "swing around the circle" in behalf of his national preparedness programme. Representative A. W. Barkley obtained this information from Secretary Tumulty at the White House.

Indications are strong that House Leader Kitchin is preparing to fight the President's policies in Congress. If this is true, Mr. Kitchin owes it to himself to resign his place of leadership, or his colleagues owe it to the Democrats of the country to remove him and put a real Democrat in his place.

The Farmers Union comprising the counties of Barren, Allen, Metcalfe, and Hart, has filed for record in the office of the County Clerk at Glasgow articles of incorporation for the First Kentucky District Supply Company. A general wholesale and retail mercantile business will be conducted. Certain government officials have for some time been intimating to Kentucky farmers that great benefits would accrue to them if they would form co-operative mercantile companies and quit buying supplies of the merchants in their country towns. Nothing could be more harmful to the real prosperity of a community than this scheme to destroy home markets and array the country against the town. It is but little better than the mail order houses in distant cities and it will be found that somebody with an axe to grind is behind the movement in the counties where it is to be tried.

END COMES TO AARON KOHN

Expired Without Warning Saturday Night In Louisville.

DEFENDED 399 MURDER CASES
Regarded As One of the Leading Criminal Lawyers in the South.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 31.—Aaron Kohn, the noted Jewish lawyer, for more than forty years a member of the Louisville bar, and widely regarded as one of the ablest lawyers in the South, died suddenly at his residence, 1511 South Third street, at 8:30 o'clock Saturday night. He conducted a hard legal case in Cincinnati Friday, and after working energetically at his office Saturday, returned home at night, feeling very tired. After eating dinner he said he was exhausted and would go to bed. He lay down, smiled and almost immediately expired. Chronic diabetes and heart trouble caused his death.

Mr. Kohn was 61 years old, having been born June 22, 1854. He was the son of Isaac Wolf Kohn and Caroline Kohn and was born at their home, Preston and Green streets. His father was born in Russia. His mother was born in Germany. He attended the public schools of Louisville and studied law in the office of the famous Isaac Green. He was admitted to the bar by special act of the Legislature while he was a minor and practiced in Louisville until his death. During his lifetime he defended 399 murder cases and not one of his clients was ever hanged.

He married Miss Jennie Buchen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Buchen, in Chillicothe, O., December 27, 1876. To them were born four children, Walter I. Kohn, now vice president of Herman Straus & Sons Company; Carrie Kohn, wife of Stanley E. Sloss; Enda Kohn, wife of Herbert Simon, owner of the Falls City New York Laundry, and a fourth who died in infancy. Except the latter the children, with their mother, survived him.

BOLD THEFT IN DAYLIGHT

Sneak Thief Robs Residence of Mr. M. H. Tandy of Jewelry.

A sneak thief entered the residence of Mr. M. H. Tandy, on Sixteenth street, between 3 and 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon and stole from the family room a silver purse, a fountain pen and a child's gold pocket. The value of the articles taken was about $20.

Mrs. Tandy left the house for about an hour to go to her mother's, Mrs. E. M. Flack's, near by. Her little son, Milan, was about the house except for a short while, when he was playing in the back yard. The thief must have watched his opportunity and slipped in while the house was unoccupied, the front door being unlocked. Mrs. Tandy returning home a few minutes later found the door ajar and the jewelry gone. No clue has been discovered.

WORST IN 25 YEARS.

Little Rock, Ark., Jan. 31.—Hundreds of persons are homeless and have asked for aid and thousands of acres of land are inundated in the lower reaches of the White and the Arkansas rivers. Upstream, with the Arkansas four miles wide at Mulberry, is a volume of water which rivermen believe will cause the worst flood in twenty-five years when it pours down stream and into the overflow that is backed up because of high water in the Mississippi.

KITTY TO LIVE AGAIN

Good Prospects For Baseball For the Coming Season.

NEW TALENT BE DEVELOPED
No Team To Play More Than Two Seasoned Men.

At a meeting held here Sunday afternoon by representatives of Owensboro, Paducah, Cairo and Hopkinsville it was decided to reorganize the Kitty league for the coming season. All those here were enthusiastic over the outlook and predicted a successful year. The keynote will be economy, and the salary limit was fixed at $800 for each club and no club will be allowed to play more than two seasoned men. This is to put the teams all on a par as to material and to force them to play ambitious youngsters rather than high-priced older heads.

The schedule will be for one hundred games, but just when the season will open was not determined. While only four towns were represented, it is believed no trouble will be met in securing two possibly four more. Those now in prospect are Henderson, Clarksville and Bowling Green, Vincennes may also come back into the fold. No officers were elected, but Dr. Frank Bassett, who kept the league going for three seasons, presided and it is assured he will be made president. Another meeting will be held soon to perfect the final details. In the meantime efforts will be made to increase the circuit to six or eight clubs.

BOWLING GREEN INTERESTED.

Bowling Green, Ky., Jan. 31.—Bowling Green has a chance to get into the "Kitty" baseball league, according to J. L. Arthur, athletic director of the Western Kentucky State Normal school. Dr. Frank H. Bassett, president of the league, has written to Director Bassett, president of the league, has written to Director Arthur that he will be in the city one day this week to talk over the matter with the lovers of the national sport about placing one of the league clubs here. The salary limit has now been placed at $800 per season, and this, it is supposed, will bring it within the peculiar limits of Bowling Green.

It is Arthur's idea to have a sufficient number of persons subscribe for tickets to insure the success of the enterprise. The Normal school body would in itself form a nucleus from which a professional team could be made. It looks like Bowling Green will raise the amount required.

DR. SIGHTS TO RETIRE

Is Not An Applicant For Re-appointment as Superintendent.

OF WESTERN STATE HOSPITAL
Dr. Earl Weathers, of Elkton, Is One of Several Applicants For the Place.

Dr. H. P. Sights, who for the past six years has been superintendent of the western state hospital here, and under whom that institution has made many advancements tending to better care and kinder treatment of the patients, has announced positively that he will not be a candidate for reappointment by the state board of control when his term expires on July 1. Dr. Sights came here from Paducah, and he has been thoroughly efficient. There will of course be no dearth of candidates for the position. One who is already announced and who is being strongly endorsed is Dr. Earl Weathers, of Elkton. He is a Democrat, a son of former Mayor Weathers and a brother of Editor Geo. S. Weathers, of the Elkton Times. His selection would be a very popular one in Western Kentucky.

Dr. H. G. Sanders, of Campbellsville, the present first assistant physician; Dr. Vernon Blythe, of Paducah, and others are avowed candidates.

Dr. S. H. Williams, of Crofton, is an applicant for one of the positions of assistant physician, also to be filled from time to time.

At Crofton there were 35 with Prof. T. H. Likens in charge. Supt. L. E. Foster visited each of the points during the two days. The results of the examinations will be announced soon.

SUIT FILED

Against Kentucky Crushed Stone Co. By Capt. Lee Howell.

Capt. Lee Howell, of Evansville, has filed a suit here against the Kentucky Crushed Stone company.

He claims that he endorsed a note for $31,000 for the company and was forced to pay it, the amount with interest, being $32,863.01. He further alleges that he is also security on another note for $1,859.07, which will be due on February 8. He wants to be protected against the possibility of having to pay this second note also.

The plaintiff recites that he holds a mortgage on the property of the company, located both here and in Evansville, which was given him as security for his standing as surely for the notes mentioned. The headquarters of the concern are in Evansville but the quarries are located here, this company having succeeded the old Dalton Stone Company.

PRESIDENT'S WARNING

"Afraid of the Danger of Shame," Unless Prepared.

SPIRIT OF WAR MENACES

Cannot Promise To Avert It and Maintain The Honor.

Cleveland, O., Jan. 31.—President Wilson, speaking, as he said, "solemnly," warned the nation that the time may come when he cannot both keep the United States out of war and maintain its honor. He declared that the country must be prepared to defend itself and must prepare at once.

"America is not afraid of anybody," he said. "I know I reflect your feelings and the feeling of all our citizens when I say the only thing I am afraid of is not being ready to perform my duty. I am afraid of the danger of inadequacy; I am afraid of the danger of not being able to express the character of this country with tremendous might and effectiveness whenever we are called upon to act in the world's affairs."

The President spoke in Cleveland to-night with more gravity and force than he has shown during any of his previous addresses on preparedness. He was applauded frequently and when he spoke of defending the nation's honor the cheering was tremendous.

"Let me tell you very solemnly you cannot postpone this thing," he declared. "I do not know what a single day may bring forth. I do not wish to leave you with the impression that I am thinking of some particular danger.

"I merely wish to tell you that we are daily treading amidst intricate dangers. The dangers that we are treading amongst are not of our own making and not under our control. I think no man in the United States knows what a single week, a single day, a single hour, may bring forth."

Again and again the President spoke of the nation's honor. He declared the real man believes his honor is dearer than his life and a nation's honor is dearer than its peace and comfort.

Regret that the question has come up in a campaign year was expressed by Mr. Wilson.

"Let us forget," he said, "that this is a year of national elections." The preparedness issue, he added, should have nothing to do with politics.

For the first time during his present tour, the President spoke of the navy and of the coast defenses. The latter, he said, are good in quality, but not in quantity.

Some people say that the navy ranks second, he declared, but the experts agree it ranks fourth. He added it should be increased.

Among the possible sources of danger mentioned by the President were the difficulties growing out of the protection of Americans abroad and the obligation of the United States to maintain the liberties of the people of the Western Hemisphere.

DAM LETS GO

San Diego, Cal., Jan. 31.—Fourteen persons were killed and a wide stretch of country was devastated late Friday when a dam of the San Diego water system broke in the Otay Valley south of the city under the strain of flood waters caused by the storm which has been raging here for several days.

Another dam was under a severe strain and its collapse was regarded as a possibility.

DROPS BOMBS ON PARIS

Germans Report Success in Offensive Movement on French Forces.

BALKAN SITUATION IS QUIET

Little Fighting on the Russian Front Except in Bukowina Region.

London, Jan. 31.—Twenty-four persons were killed and twenty-seven injured when a Zeppelin airship Saturday night dropped three and one-half tons of explosives on Paris. The attack was under cover of a fog and the raider escaped, although a large number of French aircraft endeavored to find it. Some of the bombs weighed about six hundred pounds, and exploding, caused considerable material damage.

Berlin reports that all of the ground the Germans gained in their latest offensive in the vicinity of Neuville and south of the Somme river remains in their hands despite strong French attacks.

The position captured south of the Somme, says the Berlin communication, is 3,500 metres in length and 1,000 metres in depth. Seventeen officers and 1,270 men, among them several Englishmen, were made prisoners.

Paris says that in fresh attacks opposite Dompierre, south of the Somme, the Germans were twice repulsed.

There has been little fighting on the Russian front except near Usciecko, on the Bukowina frontier, where repeated attacks by the Russians against the Austro-Hungarians are declared by Vienna to have been repulsed.

In the Balkans the situation is quiet. There have been the usual bombardments on the Austro-Italian front.

Constantinople asserts that the situation in the Caucasus and Mesopotamia, where the Turks are battling respectively with the Russians and British, is virtually unchanged. Near Felahie, it was asserted that the Turks captured 1,000 camels from the British.

Petrograd, on the other hand, reports that to the north of Erzerum the Russians continue their advance, taking prisoners and capturing machine guns.

The pursuit of the Turks south of Lake Urumiah continues.

FARM ANIMALS

WHEN CHOLERA IS SUSPECTED

Take Temperature of Apparently Healthy Animals—Make Post-Mortem Examination of Dead Hog.

When a disease that is contagious appears among hogs, spreading more or less rapidly, is quite uniformly fatal, and is accompanied by a high temperature, it is quite safe to assume that it is cholera.

Where cholera is suspected, it is well to get a thermometer and take the temperature of a number of those that are apparently well. The normal temperature is from 101 to 103 degrees in winter and about 1 degree higher in summer. If cholera is present, the temperatures will be found as high as 105 to 107 degrees.

Make a post-mortem examination on a hog that has just died and examine the kidneys for small, dark red spots resembling those on a turkey egg. Look for small red spots along the small intestines and somewhat larger ones on the lungs. The lymphatic glands, which are found in the flank, along the intestines and between the lungs, and which are a light amber color in health, will be found congested and varying from a pink to a very dark color.

Where the services of a qualified veterinarian can be obtained, he should be called to make a post-mortem and to give serum.—Department of Animal Pathology, University of Nebraska.

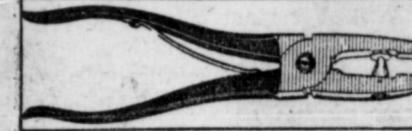

SYSTEM OF FLOCK NUMBERS

Ear Notches Serve as Identification at All Times—Also Used With Cattle or Hogs.

(By C. S. ANDERSON, Colorado Experiment Station.)

In most flocks of sheep, especially of purebred animals, it is advisable to use some system of flock numbers aside from the registry number. It is easy for an ear tag to be lost out, but a good system of ear notches serves as an identification at all times.

The system used at the Colorado Agricultural college is one which can be recommended for small flocks. One notch in the base of the lower part of the left ear, 1; two notches at the same place represents 2; one notch in the lower and one in the upper part 4, and one notch in the point of the left ear 5; one in the point and one in the base, 6; one at the point and two on the base, 7; one on the point and one in the upper part, 8; one in the point, one in the base and one in the upper part, 9. The right ear represents the tens, number ten occupying the same position as number one on the left ear. In breeding ewes certain markings such as holes in the middle of the ear can be used to designate the year of birth.

The system is only applicable to the small flocks of about a hundred sheep. If one wishes to mark a larger flock, there is a more complicated system by which sheep numbering up to 10,000 may be earmarked. It is not commonly used. These systems can also be applied to the marking of cattle or hogs.

PRODUCTION OF LIVE STOCK

Not Keeping Pace With Increase in Population—Manure Needed to Maintain Soil Fertility.

In raising live stock the successful farmer fully appreciates the value of good breed, proper care and scientific feeding. If any one feature is neglected the full value of the feed is not secured. The production of live stock is not, nor has it been for several years, keeping pace with the increase in our population and the demands from abroad.

Western ranges have been developed into farms so well satisfied with the high price obtained for corn, hay and other products that they have not bothered with live stock.

Because of the increasing demand for meat at home, and the deficit abroad partly because of the war, meat will command a very attractive price for many years to come.

Another reason why stock raising should not be neglected is because the manure from the live stock is indispensable in maintaining the fertility of the soil.

Cause of Ropy Milk.

Ropy cream or milk is caused by a germ. The germ may come from a dusty stable or a stagnant pool of water through which cow has waded. The difficulty may frequently be remedied by thoroughly scraping the dried mire from the barn and then whitewashing the interior, and by a thorough scalding of all pails, cans, and the separator.—R. M. Washburn, University Farm, St. Paul.

Arctic and Antarctic Icebergs.

It is not generally known, even to sailors, that there is a marked difference between icebergs in the Arctic and Antarctic circles. Those of the Arctic ocean are irregular in shape, with lofty pinnacles, cloud-capped towers and glittering domes, whereas the southern icebergs are flat-topped and solid-looking. The former reach the shore by narrow roads, but the formation of the latter is more regular. The northern are neither so large nor so numerous as those met with in the southern ocean.

In 1855 an immense berg was sighted in 42 degrees south latitude, which drifted about for several months, and was sighted by many ships. It was 300 feet high, 60 miles long, and 40 miles wide, and was in shape like a horseshoe. Its two sides inclosed a sheltered bay measuring 40 miles across. A large emigrant ship ran into this bay and was lost, with all on board. Only about one-ninth of an iceberg is visible above the water. There are several well-authenticated accounts of icebergs 1,000 feet high having been sighted in the southern ocean. This would make their total height 9,000 feet, or nearly two miles.

DAILY DAIRY

NEGLECT VALUE OF RECORDS

Cow Bought at Low Price Not Always Best Investment—Best to Keep Track of Feed and Milk.

Is the cheaper-priced dairy cow necessarily the better investment? The question is well answered in the following instance: A man wishing a cow for dairy purposes called upon a dairymen who kept milk records as well as cost accounts. The buyer confined his attention to two cows. One of these would cost him $75, the other $175. The former was in good condition, but the dairy characteristics were not as fully developed as they might have been; the latter was the direct opposite. The records of the two cows were shown the buyer, but he was not as much interested in records as he should have been. He did not consider it worth while to sit down and figure out which would be the best investment.

Butter sold for 25 cents per pound the year around. The $75 cow had a record of 225 pounds of butter. 225 pounds at 25c—$79.10. Cost of feed—$72.00—$7.10 profit per year. The $175 cow had a record of 415 pounds. 415 pounds at 25c—$103.75. Cost of feed—$84.00—$19.75 profit per year.

From these figures we see that it would take the $75 cow about ten years to pay for herself in butter; if she was a middle-aged cow she would never do it. On the other hand, the $175 cow would have paid for herself in butter in less than three years.

The buyer bought the $75 cow. Would he have done this if he had appreciated the value of records, and figured out the value of each cow?

TREATING ULCERS OF CORNEA

Touch All Parts of Sore With Stick of Nitrate of Silver—Bathe With Solution of Salt Water.

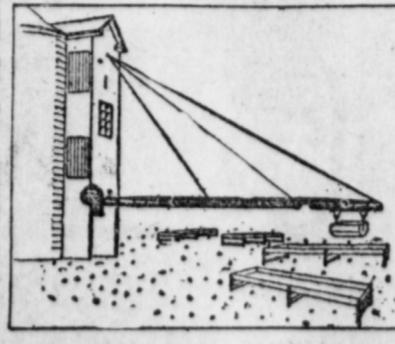

Ulcers of the cornea in calves may be caused by several things, such as bruises, abscesses, or beads from fox-tail; or it may be the result of a severe attack of pink eye. You can tell ulcers of the cornea from pink eye by means of the discharge. Instead of pus, you will find an acid, watery fluid. If it should be ulcer of the cornea, or ulcers formed by very violent cases of the pink eye, the treatment is about the same. Take a stick of nitrate of silver, sharpen as you would a pencil, get an attendant to hold the head of the calf, keeping the eyelids back, and touch all parts of the ulcer lightly with the stick of silver nitrate. Wait a few minutes and bathe eyes with a solution of salt water.

Repeat this operation in about three days. Unless you have a distinct projection on the cornea of the eye, do not use the caustic treatment. Bathe several times a day with sulphate of zinc, 15 grains to a half pint of soft water. Protect the eyes from flies, sunlight, etc.

feeding yards and is a highly useful and labor-saving arrangement. The boom or arm to which the carrier is attached must be strongly attached and guyed. The feeding racks are arranged in a semicircle that brings them just under the tip of the arm.

GIVE COWS SALT REGULARLY

Best Plan Is to Have Box Handy Where Animals Can Help Themselves Whenever They Wish.

Don't forget to salt the cows. In experiments it has been found that a cow should have three-fourths of an ounce of salt a day live weight, with an additional six-tenths of an ounce for each twenty pounds of milk produced, to keep her in the best of condition.

Animals deprived of salt become emaciated and of low vitality, finally suffering a complete breakdown. Salt should be provided regularly.

The best plan is to have a box containing salt where the animals can get it whenever they so desire. Either fine salt or rock salt can be used, although we prefer the latter.

MADE NOSE FOR A GIRL

Surgeons Manufactured One Required by Child of Twelve, Born Without One.

A nose, which in lines and symmetry compares favorably with the natural variety, has been manufactured from a soupline by surgeons at Samaritan hospital at Philadelphia for a twelve-year-old girl.

The girl was born without a nose. Her parents refrained from taking her out in public because of the attention her deformity attracted. Surgeons at the Samaritan hospital decided that the girl could have a nose like any other person. Dr. W. Wayne Babcock carved a nose along Greek lines from a soupline.

An incision was made in the frontal bone of the skull and the soupline nose securely fixed in position. Then the flesh of the face was stretched so that it covered the soupline. Nostrils were pierced in the flesh, and the child was able to breathe freely through the new nose. In a few days she will be able to leave the hospital.

New Standard Price Bill.

Under the title "To protect the public against dishonest advertising and false pretenses in merchandising" Representative Dan V. Stephens, of Nebraska, has reintroduced in the House of Representatives the original Stevens-Ayers Bill with a number of important amendments designed to meet the views of many friends of the measure.

The new bill specifically permits discounts for cash and for quantity and for allowances and rates covering costs of transportation.

A final new paragraph exempts sales to libraries and other public institutions. There are also drastic provisions against the use of the privileges of the bill in connection with any monopolized product or one concerning which there is any combination between manufacturers.

The latest tally shows 209 members of the House in favor of this legislation. This is but nine less than a majority.

Kicked in The Mouth.

Stark Ledford, a prominent farmer of the Pembroke vicinity, was kicked in the mouth by a mule as he was hauling tobacco. His mouth was badly torn and lacerated, and five of his teeth were knocked out, says the Pembroke Journal.

The four-mule team became frightened at an automobile, and the leaders turned almost entirely around. Mr. Ledford was attempting to get them straightened out and back into the road when one of them let fly with his heels, and Mr. Ledford was caught full in the mouth. His wounds were dressed by a physician, and he is getting along well.

It is said, that after the death of his wife, Cheney vowed he would not allow his daughters to even speak to a man. They were educated in seclusion until they were old enough to go away to school, when they were sent to a finishing school under strict orders to have nothing to do with any man.

COLLEGE MAN GOOD FARMER.

Graduates and former students of the college of agriculture of the University of Missouri are succeeding in all parts of the state. Their work is very well illustrated by a letter recently received by Dean F. B. Mumford indicating that the writer was not only making an income of $2,440 a year, but doing a great deal of useful work as an agricultural leader in his community by writing articles for his local paper, inspiring the use of a limestone crusher and speaking at Farmers' club meetings. He is wise enough to forget to give any advice, but furnishes the much-wanted information which he obtains and adapts to local conditions by careful study of the books and bulletins with which he is familiar as a result of his college training.

OUTINGS FOR YOUNGSTERS

Camps Are Planned For Corn Club Boys To Be Held In August.

Camps of instruction for all the members of the Boys' Corn Growing and Pig Raising Clubs in Kentucky will be held during August in every section of the state if plans formulated by Capt. Gordon Nelson, of this city, are carried out. Already the proposition of Capt. Nelson, who is assistant state agent of farm extension and director of Boys' Clubs, has been endorsed by agricultural officials both at Washington and Frankfort as well as by the state experimental station at Lexington.

Heretofore only a few of the boys in the state who had gone in for corn growing and pig raising have received rewards commensurate with their labors. Under the old plan the boys who are members of either club shall be given the benefit of an outing lasting a week or ten days.

These camps will be in the charge of the county superintendents and farm agents and a corps of agricultural experts representing the Federal and state government will instruct the boys in scientific agriculture. There will be a schedule of lectures each morning and the afternoons will be given up to camp pleasures of various sorts, together with hikes to points of interest. Each camp will be so located that swimming will be held on the topics expounded by the various lecturers with special reference to the corn and pig club, and the boy in each county passing most creditably will be given a trip to the state fair with all expenses paid.

She Will Recover

So her doctor said. Her friends and neighbors felt sure of it too. They have used Peruna themselves and know of its merits. That old cough that had worried her for years and years, for which she had taken all sorts of cough medicines, has disappeared. Peruna is doing the work. She will recover. Indeed, she has recovered.

Her name is Mrs. William Hohmann, 2784 Lincoln Ave., Chicago, Ills. She had suffered with catarrh of the bronchial tubes and had a terrible cough ever since a child. As she got older she grew worse. She coughed both winter and summer. Had to sit up at night. Could not sleep. "But all that has left me now. Peruna has cured me."

There are others, and there is a reason.

HENDERSON TAKES LEAD

In Providing a Sanatorium For All of The Tuberculosis Patients.

COST $20,000 WHEN COMPLETE

Provisions Are Made For Both White and Colored Victims.

Henderson, Ky., Jan. 31.—Henderson county is just completing one of the finest and most modern tuberculosis sanatoriums in Kentucky. It will cost approximately $20,000, and is the first to be erected under the new law.

It will consist of a central or administration building of brick and two wings of frame, the latter for the housing of patients. It is located on a knoll overlooking the Ohio River just below the south limits of the city.

But one wing is being completed, but as more room is needed the other will be added, and the wings are capable of indefinite extension. The building will be steam heated and electric wired throughout, with running water in every room. The first floor has an elevation of two feet or more. On this floor and the story above are two large dining rooms, one for whites, a smaller dining room for nurses, a throat and dental room, sterilizing room, laboratory, operating room, toilets and six bedrooms for nurses.

Advanced cases of tuberculosis will be quartered on the second floor of the administration building, with all other cases housed in the wings. In these wings the rooms are so constructed that they can open on the entire front side to atmosphere or be shut up as ordinary room.

In the basement, the floor of which opens on a level with the ground, are the boiler rooms, coal bin, storage room, laundry and kitchen. The floors of the basement are of concrete with a smooth finish of cement. A dumb elevator connects the kitchen with the floor above.

Former Senator Starling L. Marshall is president of the first commission, Efforts are being made to enlarge the district.

PASSED THE TEST.

"So you want to marry my daughter, eh?" snorted the old man. "Do you consider yourself financially able to do so?"

"Well," replied the suitor, "after a fellow has bought candy and flowers for a girl for a year, and has taken her to the theater twice a week and is still not broke, I guess he can afford to get married."

"CLASS" IN BREWSTER

By JANE OSBORN.

"Some class!" ejaculated Timothy Green, and his keen, young eyes followed the figure of one of the fair maidens of Brewster, self-consciously sidling her way along the main street clad in the Brewster adaptation of fashion's latest mandate.

Polly's eyes were just as keen as Timothy's and from her place of observation at his side on the broad, low veranda of Brewster's leading hostelry she flashed a glance down the street that didn't overlook any important detail in the costume of the girl Timothy was ogling.

"When you get good and ready, Tim," she said, with an attempt at a laugh, "seems to me I'd like to get some dinner."

"Say, excuse me, Polly, dear," said Timothy, rising and looking down affectionately at Polly's trim, pretty features. She visibly bristled, as she rose to go in.

"I'm not jealous, Timothy—I wouldn't for a minute want you to think that." And she primly straightened her narrow-brimmed, flower-trimmed hat at the mirror as she passed through the hall.

Polly Peckham and Timothy Green had been engaged to be married for six months, and now, within a week of their wedding day, they had made the trip from Stony Corners to do some long anticipated shopping. Timothy's savings had all gone to clear the mortgage on the small farm he inherited from his father, but Polly's carefully accumulated egg-and-chicken money was all to be spent for farm improvements. They were to spend the night at Timothy's uncle's house, make a second round of the stores and return to Stony Corners the next day.

After their noon dinner at the hotel, Polly and Timothy hastened to the hardware store.

"Sure you got that money all right?" said Timothy. "Hadn't I better take it?"

Polly ignored this query. As one of the Brewster girls tripped her way along she nudged Tim and mocked, "Class, real class, Tim."

They walked on in silence for five minutes. "Say, Tim," Polly broke the silence. "I've been thinking that you could like me better if I looked like one of these Brewster girls."

"Aw, shucks," was Tim's rejoinder. "I like you just the way you are or won't be so crazy to marry me." "Say, Tim, did you get that?" and Timothy whistled lightly to register his approval of the short-skirted, tank-clad blonde who was passing on the opposite side of the street.

At eight the next morning, Timothy and his uncle left the breakfast table and strolled to the veranda.

"I might as well wait here with you," said the uncle. "You won't want to start out till the women folks get the things done up inside."

But Polly had a hasty whispered conversation with Timothy's aunt. It met with the elder woman's approval and by the time Timothy and his uncle were comfortably settled in their veranda chairs she was hurrying down the back alley.

"Yes, uncle," Timothy was saying, "she's a real old-fashioned girl, she is. There isn't many girls who would have done what she did—saved all her egg money to spend on the separator and incubator and things. She's a kind of plain dresser, but a fellow can't get everything in one package. And I sure am awful fond of her."

By this time Polly had reached Brewster's leading department store. In a quarter of an hour, with a lighter purse, she went to the shoe store. Next she visited the corsetiere, and finally the hairdresser.

At noon, Timothy was still sitting on the front porch. Once or twice during the morning his aunt had come to tell him that Polly would be ready soon, but he was becoming uneasy. Then his uncle returned from his work and they sat waiting for dinner to be announced.

"No, she sure is as economical a wife as anyone would want to find," he was repeating, and then as a figure the embodiment of all that made the Brewster belles worth looking at came tripping around the house by the driveway, Timothy whistled.

"Say, uncle, did you get that class? Some swell dame. If it weren't for Polly I'd sure want to make her acquaintance." Then as he looked at the figure as it approached the veranda he whistled again.

"Polly, Polly," he gasped, and Polly slid gracefully into the chair next to him. Then she rose and stood showing off her finery, her arms outstretched so that no detail of her transformation could be missed.

"Is it class?" she asked, assuming a tone of mock anxiety, and then Timothy, usually lethargic and undemonstrative, seized her dainty figure in his arms and drew the ruffles and gewgaws close to him.

"I was beginning to be afraid you wouldn't be back in time to do the shopping," he said.

Polly hung her head and the color rose to her cheeks. "I guess there won't be enough to buy the incubator and the separator," she said, as she handed him the open half-empty purse.

"Aw, shucks," said Timothy. "Let's spend the rest on another outfit for you. You sure are some class."

BIG FIELD FOR POLICEWOMAN

As Welfare Worker, She Must Be Specially Trained for Social Service.

"How do the masculine bobbies treat you?" Anne Forsythe, policewoman of Aurora, Ill., was asked.

"Very nicely. They're mostly a good-natured, warm-hearted lot of men, though not particularly intelligent. The policeman looks upon his work as a job, and his chief asset in performing his duties is his physical force. The policewoman is a welfare worker, usually well educated and specially trained for social service. It's really a big field for a woman, and tremendously interesting work. I feel that my chief task is to prevent girls from getting into lives of vice, but all sorts of other problems are brought to me as well. As soon as it was publicly announced that I was to serve as a policewoman crowds began to pour into my office. I was asked to quell incorrigible children and brutal husbands, even to hunt up deserting ones. Many a shirker of conjugal duties I've trotted back to the bosom of his family! The newsboys I just love, and sometimes I think they rather like me." —Patience Bevier Cole in New York Sun.

FREE SPEECH IN ENGLAND

World's Political Exiles Seem to Gravitate Naturally to the Land of Fogs.

England has long been pre-eminently the land of free speech. On the continent a very close police supervision is exercised over the acts of the individual, and anything in the nature of incendiary utterances is promptly suppressed.

When an anarchist or revolutionist escaped from Russia, Austria, Germany or France, he sought and found an asylum in England.

London has long been the home of the world's political exiles, and yet it has been the freest of all the European capitals from bomb throwing or revolutionary demonstrations.

A street speaker could denounce all English institutions from Magna Charta down and attract very little attention.

The suffragists created tumults and more disorder than generations of political refugees had done.

NEW LIFE-SAVING SUIT.

There was recently tried in water off Sandy Hook a life-saving suit which is the invention of a locomotive engineer of Sheridan, Wyo., which, it is asserted, will not only save the life of a victim of marine accident who undertakes to make use of it, but it will also protect the wearer from chill and shock, the result of being thrown into the water.

The new suit is made of a material which is rendered waterproof by a treatment of rubber, but its buoyancy is secured by making use of kapoc, a Russian plant, which is lighter and more buoyant than cork. The inventor put on one of these suits right over his street clothing in a minute and a quarter, and then jumped into the water, where he remained splashing around for some time, and when he removed the life-saving suit there was no evidence of water inside.

LIVELY CURIOSITY.

"Dubwaite says he would rather lend a hand to a man who is down and out than dine with royalty."

"Still, I don't think much of Dubwaite's philanthropy."

"No?"

"He gets enough satisfaction out of cross-examining the poor devil before he gives assistance to amply repay him for any trouble he takes."

GROWN DOUBTFUL.

"Has your boy Josh a good disposition?"

"I dunno," replied Farmer Corn-tassel. "I allus thought so till I saw him the other day in a football game."

THE PAYMENT.

"What did yo'all give fer dat mule, sah?"

"Done give muh note."

"Cheap enough, sah; cheap enough."

UP THE SPOUT.

Dix—Not necessarily. I was once interested in a concern that went up for good.

MAN FISHED FOR CHICKENS

And He Caught Them With the Use of Corn Kernels and Trout Hook.

Baiting a trout hook with kernels of corn, Louis Boyden of Springside Avenue tossed it out into his garden, held the other end of the line, sat down, smoked his pipe and waited for a bite.

One of Rebecca Rosenthal's Rhode Island Red broilers on the other side of the dividing fence sighted the kernels, hopped through a gap in the fence and swallowed bait, hook and line—there was no sinker. Boyden hauled in his five-pound catch, beheaded it in his woodshed, rebaited the hook, cast again and soon had another pullet.

Satisfied with his luck, Boyden put away his tackle. But someone who had watched his exploit told the police. In court he pleaded nolo contendere and was fined $3.80. This would have been cheap enough for two chickens, not counting the sport, but the heartless police took them away and returned them to their rightful owner.—Pittsfield (Mass.) Dispatch, New York World.

Rats have caused more cussing among otherwise good Christian farmers than any other rodent, probably. A Minneapolis man has been working to beat them at the business of eating up the grain bags between seasons, so that the hurried owner must plug the holes with corn cobs and hay when he gets ready to bag the wheat at threshing time. Government officials are considering the bag for the carrying of foreign mail. Flexible metal is used in making the sack, a smaller inner sack fitting inside for grain, flour, etc. James F. Shannon, the inventor, got his idea from the mesh bag of a woman visitor at his home five years ago when he was working in Virginia.—Farming Business.

CENSOR ON THE JOB.

We are informed that a young woman, writing recently to a cousin who is a prisoner of war in Germany, mentioned, in informing him of her father's intention to organize a small party to shoot pheasants on his property, that "father has great difficulty in getting guns." This valuable piece of military information was deleted by the censor.—London Times.

NO GLOOMSTER.

"So you actually thought you had made an impression on Miss Peach-er's heart?"

"Why—er—yes. She certainly acted as if I were the only man in the world for her."

"I want to congratulate you for one thing."

"And what is that?"

"Your optimism."

HAD DONE HIS BEST.

Lover—I wish to marry your daughter, sir.

Old Gotrox—You do, eh? Are you sure you love Henrietta?

Lover—Well, if I don't, sir, she is the worst fooled girl in this town.—Judge.

Damaging Admission.

Providence, R. I., Jan. 31.—After having repeatedly asserted that she never intended to divorce her husband, Dr. C. Franklin Mohr, and that he had no sincere desire to divorce her, Mrs. Elizabeth F. Mohr, charged with instigating two negroes, Cecil Brown and Henry Spellman to murder him, admitted on cross-examination that she had discussed with her attorneys last summer the question of allowing Dr. Mohr to have an absolute divorce, on the basis of his turning over to her his Newport villa and $75,000 in cash.

She denied that she had made offers to Dr. Mohr's attorneys through her own lawyers to let her husband have an absolute divorce for the Newport house and $20,000, or the Elmwood avenue house and $15,000. She would not say whether her husband had made an offer of $10,000 for the divorce, but declared that some offer was made and refused.

Claim of $30,000.

The Court of Appeals, four to three, dismissed the petition of State University for a hearing of the suit against the State Auditor, by which subsection providing fees of $7.50 for each analysis under the pure food act allowed, the Experiment Station, was declared unconstitutional. The decision deprives the Experiment Station of $30,000 annual revenue. Justices Turner, Clark and Thomas dissented.

WESTERN UNION WINS

Judge Evans Holds That It Can Place Its Poles Along L. & N. Right of Way.

Judge Evans in the Federal Court has decided the case of the Western Union against the L. & N. in favor of the Western Union.

Judge Evans holds that there is a necessity for the Western Union placing its telegraph poles along the L. & N. right of way.

He holds that this will not interfere with the operation of the railroad.

A jury trial on February 8 will determine what the Western Union shall pay the L. & N. for this, if anything, and the jury will make a four days' trip over the road.

Secretary of National Club Writes to Local Association.

WELL SUITED FOR THE SOUTH

Rank First as Winter Layers and Utility Fowls.

Mr. S. C. Babble of New Cumberland, Pa., who is secretary of the National White Wyandotte Club, is very much interested in the adoption of White Wyandottes by the Christian County Poultry Improvement Assn., and in a letter to Secretary R. D. Hill offers to give to the Association thirty eggs from his flock of high class birds.

Mr. Babble says that the National Club is interested in giving the bird a better foothold in the South and the South certainly can do no better than to tie up to White Wyandottes. He says in his opinion Christian county has taken a wise and progressive step.

The local Association has made application for membership in the National White Wyandotte Club and will be listed in the White Wyandotte year book early in the year. This membership in the National Club will mean much to the local Association for it will put the Association in touch with all the noted breeders in the country.

John S. Martin, of Port Dover, Ontario, Canada, is president; J. W. Andrews, of Brighton, Mass., is vice-president; S. C. Babble, of New Cumberland, Pa., secretary-treasurer; Eugene J. Straus, of Anchorage, Ky., well known to local poultrymen, is the State Secretary for Kentucky.

The White Wyandotte is one of the most popular breeds in the Pacific Northwest and is considered an ideal fowl for the severe winter of Canada.

Prof. M. A. Jull, lecturer, Macdonald College, Quebec, Canada, and President of the International Association of Poultry Instructors and Investigators, has the following to say about the White Wyandotte:

"The White Wyandotte fowl is a valuable asset to the poultry industry of this country. It is a popular breed, largely because it is a profitable breed both to the exhibition breeder and the farmer. It is bred to a large extent in all parts of the country from the Atlantic to the Pacific; it is a breed which is well adapted to our Canadian climates and to Canadian market requirements. The rose comb is a feature of importance in egg production in the Province of Quebec during our cold winter months, when the temperature sometimes drops to 20 degrees below zero. The White Wyandotte has scored notable successes in the egg-laying competitions in British Columbia.

"In the Province of Quebec the White Wyandotte is gaining in popularity. Montreal affords one of the best poultry markets on the continent, offering high prices for eggs during the winter months while prices for market poultry are unusually good the year round. Since well bred White Wyandottes are good winter layers they can be made very profitable and in addition they are used to a certain extent to supply the broiler trade of the larger cities and summer resorts of the Province, but more especially they supply the roaster trade with birds of good type and quality. A number of bred-to-lay strains are being bred in the Province and the outlook for the exhibition breeder is very encouraging."

Farmers Own Much Standing Timber.
The quantity of standing timber now owned by the farmers of the United States reaches a huge total. It is estimated to exceed 250 billion feet of saw timber and one and a third billion cords of cordwood.

Ship Probably Lost.

London, Jan. 31.—Grave anxiety is felt regarding the British steamship Appam, which left Dakar for Plymouth on January 11, with 166 passengers and 134 in the crew. When about four days out wireless communications with the vessel suddenly ceased. A dispatch from Hull to Lloyds says that the British steamship Tregantle reports having passed at sea on January 16 a life boat with the name Appam painted on the stern and the bow knocked away.

FOR JUSTICE

Nomination Sent to Senate by President and Action Causes Surprise.

FIRST JEW FOR THE POSITION

Brandeis' Name Had Not Been Mentioned Among Long List of Eligibles.

Washington, Jan. 31.—Louis D. Brandeis of Boston was nominated by President Wilson Friday for the place on the supreme court bench made vacant by the death of Associate Justice Lamar.

The senate received the nomination with unconcealed surprise in which all official Washington joined because Mr. Brandeis had not been mentioned among the long list of eligibles which President Wilson considered, or among an equally long list of espiants who presented endorsements.

Today the senate judiciary committee, to which the nomination was referred, will appoint a subcommittee, which, according to precedent, will consider the nomination and make a report.

It was learned that among the endorsements sent to the President urging Mr. Brandeis' appointment to the supreme bench was one from Gifford Pinchot, former chief forester, whose celebrated controversy with Secretary Ballinger brought Mr. Brandeis into the public eye six years ago. He appeared as chief counsel for the forces opposing the former secretary in the noted Ballinger-Pinchot controversy which sent its ramifications into many phases of national politics at the outset of President Taft's administration.

Although celebrated as a lawyer, Mr. Brandeis has been devoting practically all his time of late in the Zionist movement in this country, which has for its object the repatriation of the Jews to a nation of their own in Palestine. If confirmed he would be the first Jew to sit on the supreme bench.

Greene In Bad Company.

With only one Democrat, Frank C. Greene, of Carrollton, voting against it, the Vance corrupt practices act passed the House Friday by the vote of 80 to 8. The seven Republicans who voted against it were Representatives Cannon, Cooper, Dover, Hall, Grimes, Oliver and Wall.
